Annual Meeting

Annual School Meeting held January 14th 1921. at the school house at 7 o'clock p.m.

There were eleven ratepayers present. Dr. H. G. Folkins presided.

Minutes of last annual meeting were read and accepted as read on motion of E. A. Foxwell—W. McCluskey.

Mr. Laws read the Teachers Report. Dr. Folkins read the Trustees Report; and secretary read reports of the Auditor, Secretary and treasurer. These were accepted as read on motion of Foxwell—Herbert, Carried.

Chairman then declared the meeting open for nominations. Mrs Saul and W. McCluskey nominated Dr. H. G. Folkins for trustee. Dr. Folkins then vacated the chair and Mr. E. A. Foxwell presided.

At the close of the prescribed time the chairman declared nominations closed and that Dr. H. G. Folkins was duly elected trustee for the Chauvin School District for the full three years term.

Dr. Folkins thanked the meeting, and spoke shortly on school matters generally, expressing his gratification of the work of his co-trustees during the last year, and appreciation of the way in which the teachers and paid officials had carried out all duties.

The matter of a teachers residence was fully discussed by the ratepayers present, and plans were produced and examined. The feeling of the meeting was that there should be something done in this regard as soon as possible, but that the price of materials was against us for the present time. The wish was expressed by Mr. Keith and Mrs. Parcels, that a piano should be purchased for the end that the scholars should receive some musical training. The meeting concurred in the desire to see all facilities provided in this regard.

The financial standing of the district was well received and commented upon. Mr. W. McCluskey congratulated the trustees on the standing of the district and on the valuable work accomplished during the year; and thought that the matter of further building could be left in the hands of the Board.

Mrs Parcels suggested that funds for the piano could be raised by lawn fêtes, or ice cream socials held on the school grounds, and expressed a willingness to organize same.

Moved W. McCluskey—H. Herbert that the meeting adjourn

Plans For Burns

Celebration Jan. 25

The St. Andrews Society of Chauvin are giving their second annual dinner in the Oddfellows Hall, Burns night, Tuesday January 25th.

This promises to be a most interesting and enjoyable event. The dinner will be served at 7:45 p.m.,—prompt—and will be followed by a concert and concluded with a dance.

The committee are particularly anxious that there should be no misunderstanding as to who is entitled to attend this happy Scotch function.

Any person born in Scotland, or any person whose direct antecedents were born in Scotland. If a man or his wife is of Scotch descent both are will be admitted to the dinner for 25c and are entitled thereafter to an honorary membership. Membership tickets two dollars each, are for sale from Jeff Swan, Jas Guthrie, or J. A. MacKenzie. A splendid program will be given.

After the dinner the president Mr. J. Guthrie will give, Immortal Burns, and a very interesting program will be intermingled with the toast list.

The ladies committee for the Burn's Nicht on January 25th will esteem it a favor, if Scotchmen who intend being present will bring along some Scotch baking, such as oatcakes, shortbread, little buns or big buns, fruit tartlets, and if possible butter and cream.

Chauvin W. I. Notes

The election of officers of the Chauvin Women's Institute was held in the rest room last Wednesday.

The following officers were elected: Hon. President—Mrs. Roy; President—Mrs. T. Armour; Vice-President—Mrs. M. Cayford; 2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. H. N. Freeman; Secretary—Mrs. A. C. Gifford; Publicity Secy. Mrs. D. MacDonald; Directors—Mrs E. Ellis, Mrs. A. Campbell, Mrs. Dr. Folkins, Mrs. L. E. Roy, Official delegate—Mrs. L. E. Roy; Chauvin delegate—Mrs A. C. Gifford.

Auditors—Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Parcels.

LOCAL NOTES

Mrs. Black left on Monday for her home in Calgary.

The Oddfellows installed the new officers for the current term Wednesday evening last.

An effort has been made to put the fire alarm in good shape. We gravely doubt that it is audible in our office when our machinery is running.

On a charge laid by Constable Duncan, under section 542a of the C. C. of Canada, of wantonly illtreating a heifer in the village of Chauvin, Wilbert Johnston was fined $10.00 and costs by Magistrate Dawson, of Wainwright, who heard the case.

Curling Notes

The play all competition is now nearing completion, and as several of the rinks are still in the running, the finish up will furnish some exciting games.

We had a rink from Wainwright as our guests last week, and after an interesting game they had to admit defeat by the score of 12-5. The Chauvin Rink was made as follows. J. A. Code, Skip; G. W. Allan, Third, W. Cahill, Second, and M. Parcels, Lead.

The Wild Cats turned up one night for the 9 o'clock draw with "Full Rink" but had to admit defeat by a narrow margin of one shot, but some of the players claim that the defeat was due to the fact that the skip held them on with two brooms instead of one, which after all is a perfectly good alibi.

We understand that one of the skips taking in the Wainwright bonspiel has chartered the City Dray for Friday, to take the prizes from the station to his home (unconfirmed).

The Chauvin Curling Club is being represented at Wainwright by the following rinks. The Wet Rink, The Dry Rink, so after the Bonspiel we will be able to decide the all important question once for all.

Cy Forryan has turned acrobat, and the spectators are kicking because he wanted to charge them 25c. each, for taking in the show.

Another Step In

Right Direction

By EX-DIRECTOR

Before the march of time, the pressure of circumstances, and the working of Nature's rule that Man never IS, but always TO BE blest, we find ourselves as people and a farming community leaving behind us a great many of the pioneer ways, and ideas of our pioneer days in the West, and while we enjoyed those days, when we are desirous of making progress we waste no time in regretting their passing, to do so being but to retard our progress seeing that looking backwards, is the slowest known form of making progress. Ten to one a critical neighbour, or an adjoining district might even be hard-hearted enough to criticize such a form of progress, as being but a camouflage for back numberism! However, let us hasten to remark that there is nothing backnumberish about our particular corner of the province! But never has that saying regarding 'Man's good times being just a lap ahead of him all the time,' been so plainly proven as this fall, when a bounteous harvest stand well fatted range stock promised relief from worry for both farmer, and shop keeper, only to be postponed again by below profit prices, raised freight rates, and stagnant markets.

The remedy for the wheat position would seem to be to raise less wheat until the times do alter, or until we have grown a full-fledged-stay-with-the-game belief in a farmer's wheat settled we are face to face with the fact that the day of the 'range stuff' is nearing its twilight and the stock that has been grain fed, or given something more than the old-time 'prairie wool' finish, is the stock that is going to make the buyers bid up, to the satisfaction of the producers.

and give a stabilizing effect to the markets, while at the same time qualifying us to hold our own with all comers, when bidding for the export market.

Part of the good that the ill wind of lowered grain prices blew to us, is the chance we have of using the cheap grains as a means of raising stock, and there is no doubt farmers all over the province will eventually, if not sooner, see the advantage of the chance, and seize upon it.

But if it must be eventually,—why not make it sooner? The surest criterion of success is the ability to keep a little ahead of the game, we know. Now the nucleus of most forms of progress has resulted from individual initiative, reinforced and endorsed by community enterprise and broadmindedness. Without these last the Nucleus may quickly return to the limbo of things forgotten, or seek a more nourishing environment. In connection with this question of 'finishing off' our live stock in a new way, the directors of the Agricultural society had a visit from a well-known stock owner and buyer who after due reference to the demoralized state of the cattle markets and the advocating grain feeding as at least a partial remedy, suggested having a Fat Stock show either at Christmas or Easter.

Each farmer could feed the intended exhibit according to his theories, on stock feeding, the only stipulation being that he keep a record of the variety and amount of grain fed—for reference after the awards have been made by the judge.

In the event of there being a carlot shown, and all exhibitors being agreeable, the bunch could be shipped, to the (we hope) ensuing honor and glory of our Chauvin District, and

HOMELY TALKFaith In Ourselves

What the farmer needs is to get the idea out of his head that the rest of the world is having so much more pleasure and happiness than he is. It is natural to have a desire for that we do not have. When one finally obtains a long hoped for desire it is not so attractive as it was when one was struggling and laboring for its attainment. The farmer has the best of everything if he will improve his own condition as fast as possible, and feel he is having just as much fun as the other fellow, and that he is just as important in the running of affairs, but not more important than other fellows. He does not want to put himself in the position of the under dog, trampled by everyone, but neither does he want to trample down the other fellow. A strong farmers' trust would be much stronger and more destructive than any big money trust. Let us regulate big business so it cannot strangle competition. Get the idea into our heads that the other fellow is not a thief and a liar. Let us have a little more confidence in ourselves and the other fellow and get into a little warmer feeling toward our next door neighbour. Then most of our imaginary ills would disappear.

Dangerous Talk

Ordinarily people flee from the pessimist. They dodge the person overly fond of talking of his troubles, or another's. They are still more anxious to avoid the man who talks of troubles that exist only in imagination; the panic predictor, for instance. This is as true now as it was a year ago. And yet, today, there is more of this "viewing with alarm."

It isn't that there is need for pessimism now. It isn't that the country is worse off than it was. The reverse is a fact. This year's crops were fine. The year's production of manufactured goods was all that could be desired. No danger threatens from without or within.

No danger? Yes, there is danger! The danger of loose talk. Loose talk and gossip is the most dangerous of the various conflicting currents of the present time.

Let us encourage an optimistic attitude for the future and develop in our minds a firm foundation of belief in the future of our country, its resources and its people. Here we are, the richest nation on earth, possessors of natural resources of tremendous wealth and creditors to the world.

Why indulge in "loose talk" when there is something better to talk about?

The Dawn

Why have the farmers been so slow to organize? Most people have accounted for the existing backwardness in organization among farmers to individualism and lack of education. No doubt these are in part the reason, but the practical task of organizing is the chief reason. For instance, it was a simple matter, comparatively speaking, to organize the manufacturers. They were few in number; they lived in large centres where they were on easy communication with each other. It would be possible to call a meeting of every member of the Manufacturers association in a few hours. Not so the farmers. They were scattered over millions of acres of land, where communication is difficult. The practical difficulties that confront them in organizing is the chief reason why farmers are not one hundred per cent efficient.

But in spite of these colossal difficulties, the movement is succeeding, and every year now makes the task more simple. Men who can still hold on it the face of drought, hail, frost and other adverse conditions will yet win out in spite of all. The dawn of a new day for the farmers in Canada is near at hand.

Out Of Hand

There is no surer proof that the present economic system has got entirely out of hand, than the fact that the men at the top are, and have been for long, wasting reams of paper in advice calculated to save the tottering mass from destruction. First, it was more production and less spending. The result was overproduction on the one hand and a buyers' strike' on the other.

The Retail Merchants' association are now posing as the latest saviours of an obsolete system in a "Buy, Buy! Buy!! campaign. Buy carefully—but buy." But the advisers of the workers have not furnished the information as to what the people are to buy with.

Here And There

According to the report which comes from Winnipeg the Dominion government cannot have an election until after the next census, and it is difficult to understand how an election before that time is possible. A redistribution after the census of 1921 cannot be made before some time well into 1922. The house of stretched to the limit should sit into 1923.

In a campaign speech recently, Premier Meighen had occasion to declare: "We are getting after the profiteers more than any other country in the world." This is one of the most truthful utterances that has ever fallen from the lips of Hon. Arthur. The profiteers most certainly have been and are leading Premier Meighen and his supporters by the nose. Yes! both the premier and the people of Canada that come AFTER the profiteers.

The Farmers' wheat pool is having its difficulties, according to reports coming from Ottawa, which is not surprising. It is not surprising that it is having difficulties because no enterprise as huge as that could get along without some obstacles, and it is not surprising that such reports are widely circulated.

January 1st saw the reduction of 5 per cent in freight rates in the west, but only in the case of heavy freight shipped long distances will it be found to affect to any extent the cost of shipping. Retailers need not look for much relief in this direction, and though it will add 5 per cent. to the price of wheat, farmers, armers won't otherwise notice much difference.

A local farmer says it takes all the wool he gets from 150 sheep to buy a suit of clothes. If this is true, it is high time to pull some of the wool off our eyes. That might improve the market some.

Melba cleared sixty thousand dollars on her last Canadian tour, which shows her wonderful capacity for taking high notes.

What people say about you, good or bad don't count so much in the building up of character as what you think of yourself.

When things are coming your way, don't stand in the way till they knock you down.

SHORT STORIES OF A SOLDIER'S LIFE
AT THE FRONT

LIFE SAVING

When the great offensive of 1918 started at Amiens, the Canadian Corps, as nearly one knows, made the biggest break into a straight line front, that has ever been accomplished by any Army in the history of the

It was while doing duty on this front as a Brigade to Battalion runner that the undermentioned incident occurred.

I was given a message to take to Bde. transport, and had got as far as the outskirts of the village that we were in, (Warvillers), when I passed a "Crown and Anchor" board which was, as usual, open for play.

"Come on, my lucky lads. Lay it down thick and heavy. The more you put down, the less you pick up. Heavy on the "old Sgt. Mjr"! who's having a little on the Lucky old Sparkler? All finished! All finished? Up she comes. Two lucky old "mud-old Man" smiles once more boys.

I pulled out my wallet, (found on the field only two days before), and counted my "wad". It amounted to 85 francs, and so I decided to make it either larger or smaller as soon as the opportunity offered. "All paid and satisfied, and away we go again.

No one on the "little old grave digger"? "I backed the 10 g.d. 3rd, and then waited with bated breath while the other players got through. "All set and up she comes, a club, heart and a lucky old "mud-hook". "Damn!" There are 40 francs gone west, I thought "but better luck next time."

As the dice were put down on the board for the second time, I put down the remaining money (45 francs) on the Sergt. Major, Poor Old Sergt. Major. He was getting crowded out of the place by the amount of bet that were placed on him, and I felt like transferring my money to some other chance. Well after the usual line of small board talk, the owner pulled up the shaker and displayed to the waiting group, of which I was but a particle, a heart and two anchors.

That broke yours truly and I started on my way with the message.

Now the above doings had taken at the most a minute and to make up for lost time I set off at a stiff pace, it was a good lesson that I had just had in the game and I was wondering where the next cigarettes were going to spring from. The distance I had gone from the group was about 200 yds. when there was a "Whir-r-r, B*A*N*G" and I saw that a 6" tout burst about a hundred yards ahead of me and in my direct path. I only heard the thing about a second before it through fore it burst and had no time to duck or think, and the pieces went through as though they were going on a long journey and wanted to get it finished.

Well I swerved to the left, and a half minute after, he dropped another shell about half a mile in front of me, and, a few seconds after, he dropped another one away to the right of me. He was shooting erratic and there was no chance of getting out of the way at all as there is when artillery are firing on some fixed target.

After I got my breath back and started to think backwards, I noticed, that according to time and distance, if I had not stopped to play the board, I would have undoubtedly been within a few ft. of where the first shell burst. And as these particular shells burst in pieces go straight sideways, and rather low to the ground, I began to thank my lucky stars that there had been a board to plan on and the 85 francs looked to my eyes as though it was blood money to be considered by me from that day to this as a very lucky escape.

On coming back to the headquarters it was with great fear and trembling that I approached the town as "he" had been shelling all round it since I had left. When I got among the houses I considered things were going on pretty good, but just then "the dirty one" dropped a shell into a brick building about 30 yards from me and it started to rain small bricks and brick dust. Of course it is not necessary to tell you that I was nowhere in the near vicinity when the next one landed.

ARMY TERMS

There was very few, if any, of the men that were engaged in the war of '14 to '18, who did not at some time or other get "crummy". Now this word to the ordinary person in the street is one of horror and it would be said of a man, who was this way afflicted in civil life, that he was unclean. No doubt the words would be quite to the point and there would be a good deal of truth in them also. In the good old army way it was considered more or less of a duty to get this way and then you were able to go on a hunting expedition whenever you had time to take off your shirt. Do not think, dear readers, that these little darlings confine themselves to shirts, for they do not. They have a habit of just getting into your socks and also they will sometimes, just for spite, come out on to the front of your boots and chew the laces through.

When the corps were at the Somme in 1916, they picked up some of these little pets that were black. These were at once christened "Germans" and "Germans" they remained to all ranks as long as the war lasted. But my private opinion is that as the troops were without a wash for so long on that front, the "little dears" who are in ordinary times so clean, naturally got the black look on their little darling bodies by being such a good bunch as to stick to the men, not caring what front or action they were going into.

Well, while on this front and behind it some miles, at Vadencourt Wood, I was one day taking a stroll through the wood having nothing better to do. On the outskirts of the camp I saw a fellow busily engaged in combat with the "enemy". After noticing by his earnestness, that he was very, very busily engaged, I approached to take a hand at his side if things would blow that way. He was sat on a stump and had his coat and shirt both off, his coat was on the ground but he was reading his shirt and there seemingly there was as many interesting features in it as in "The News of the World". "Hello! old timer" I said, to break the ice. "Hows the hunting?" "Well!" said he. "It's got me going, I hunt over this shirt every night, and there is always thousands, nay, millions, there when I take another look."

"Well! where are their re-enforcements coming from?" said I. He looked at me. "What re-enforcements?" "Why, you have just said that you were never free, and if so there must be some secret way that they are getting their hordes up without you being wise?" At this stage I reached down and grabbed his tunic which had for some minutes been trying to get away unobserved. "Do you ever read your tunic?" I said to him. "Why, no, I never thought they would stay in a tunic, so didn't look. Are there any there?" While he was speaking I was looking into the seams of his tunic, and an whole army supply of the little blighters where there under the edge of the grey-backs and families of black ones—families of red ones and different other species that until then I was not on speaking terms with.

Well after this discovery, the fellow wanted to know what to do with his coat. I advised him to get some old twigs and start a fire, then to get some green new boughs and try and smoke them out. But by this time I thought it was getting near time for me to go, as there was some work in preparation, and of course I love work. So I wished the poor soldier, who had such a large family to keep, the very best of luck on his next hunting trip, and then disappeared into the woods, to try for a while to forget the war and all attendant horrors.

Woodward Loses Car
And Garage By Fire

George Woodward had the misfortune to have his coal shed and garage burned to the ground early last Saturday morning. The fire was first noticed by Mr and Mrs Parcels, from their house at about five-thirty. But it was too late to save the buildings or contents which consisted of a stock of coal and a car. Jeff Swan was busy on the phone and got out commendable manner. The wind the fire fighting apparatus in a very fortunately was blowing in a safe direction and no other buildings were endangered. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained.

Considerable sympathy was felt for George in his loss and a subscription list was promptly opened. Mr Quam acted as collector has gathered in over $150. Further subscriptions are invited.

ARTLAND ARGUS

The dance at Stanmore school was a most enjoyable one. As the evening was rather stormy the crowd was small, but not lacking in "pep."

There will be a presentation dance held at Brady, January 21st for Mr. and Mrs. E. Foley, who were married in Saskatoon on December 29th 1920. Everyone come and make the evening a success. Although Mr. Foley is well known in the district, very few of us are acquainted with Mrs. Foley and it will be an excellent opportunity to meet her and welcome her to our district.

The case of Casel Shippy was tried in Artland, January 15th, before Mr. Geo. Lawson, J.P. Mr. W. Forran J.P. and Mr. Kingston of the Provincial Police. The boy was charged with breaking four insulators on telephone poles which is a very serious offense, the punishment being two years imprisonment. Owing to the youth of the boy, (his age is but sixteen) the Justices of the Peace were very lenient, letting him off with $10, and costs—and a solemn warning. Another man was implicated in the case but the police have not found him yet! His sentence will no doubt be heavier as he is a full-grown man and should realize that tampering with telephone lines is not the child's

The Ladies Aid of Artland and District are planning some social event very soon too. This has not been definitely dated either. However—more next issue.

THE KING OF THE CATS

Some years ago, two brothers lived in a lonely farm in a lonely part of Scotland, and the only creature they had to keep them company was a great black cat. One night the youngest brother came home late, and said

"I've just seen the strangest sight on earth. I lost my way on the hills, and came to a hollow tree with a light in it. I looked down the tree and there was fairyland. A funeral was taking place, and a host of cats were following a little coffin stamped with a crown and sceptre. Whatever can it mean?"

"I know," said the great black cat "Old Peter is dead, and hurrah! I'm now the King of the Cats!"

And the old cat rushed up the chimney and was never seen on earth again.

THE WHITE COW

Mitchell's Fold is a circle of encantel stones standing on a wild moor in West Shropshire. There, in days gone by, lived a white cow, and this white cow was the kindest and most wonderful creature that ever fed on grass.

She allowed anyone who came along to milk her, and, no matter how many persons came, she always had plenty of milk for all, so long as nobody took more than one pailful.

But one winter, when there was a grievious famine in the land, and everyone was living on the milk of the white cow, a spiteful, old witch resolved to drive the gentle,airy creature away, so that no one could get any milk.

Instead of bringing a pail, the old witch brought a sieve, and milked, and milked, until she milked the white cow dry. The white cow at once vanished, and was never seen by mortal eye again, although some of the moor land people say that she changed herself into the tallest of the enchanted stones now standing in Mitchell's Fold.

THE KAFFIR AND THE LION

An old Kaffir was trudging back to his master's farm in Northern Rhodesia, when he heard a sound in the bush that made his blood run cold. A white stranger would not have known what the slight but continual crackling in the brushwood meant but the native knew and trembled.

A lion was following him and watching him as a cat watches a mouse. But, not being emboldened by hunger, it was waiting till nightfall to make its spring. Unhappily, it was already growing dusk, and the farm was still far off, and the old man had no other weapon than the stick that he was tottering along with.

How could he escape? The Kaffir glanced anxiously around. There was no bush high and strong enough to protect him from the lion. But as he went along the old negro worked out a plan, a simple but very daring plan, which probably no white man would ever have thought of.

On coming to a low hill that sloped gently up on one side, and then ended in a sudden precipice, the native slowly walked up it, and sat on the edge of the rock. Half turning his head, he saw the lion watching him.

As soon as it grew dark, the old man climbed down to a footing underneath the precipice, and, putting his hat and coat on his stick, he lifted it above the rock. In the meantime the lion had been creeping up. Within striking distance, he made a sudden leap, and over the precipice he went, and landed on the plain with a broken neck. The next morning the wise old Kaffir had the pleasure of skinning his dreaded enemy.

NEARLY ANOTHER VICTIM

This composite photograph shows the miraculous escape of Roscoe Sarles, winner of the 250 mile speed championship race on the Los Angelesway recently when Gaston Chevrolet, Eddie O'Donnell and Lyle Jolles were killed in a collision of the racing cars driven by Chevrolet and O'Donnell. Sarles following close behind the ill fated drivers at a speed of 108 miles an hour by dexterous manipulation of his car averted possible would have meant putting the price of bread almost beyond the reach of millions of industrial workers; and would have resulted in the impoverishment of a great portion of our rich agricultural lands of the west. Our farmers were growing wheat to the exclusion of other branches of agriculture; and experience elsewhere has proven that if this practice is followed out for any length of time, the land becomes exhausted, and general conditions become bad. Western Canada is still a young enough country to produce vast quantities of wheat, but it is a well recognized principle of agricultural economics that diversified products are the most successful contributors to real prosperity.

The downward trend of wheat prices is therefore not an unmixed evil. It was bound to come and although it might be delayed, it was as inevitable as the dawn. If a period of adjustment and retrenchment is upon us we must make the best of it with willing hands and cheerful hearts secure in the knowledge that our country is young, strong and of extraordinary resource.

Wheat Price Outlook

Wheat markets are now showing signs that a movement to higher levels is at hand. And the condition calculated to produce an upward turn are gaining strength. Most important of these are supply conditions. We have sold a lot of wheat, and so has the United States. In fact, the United States appears to have oversold. Argentine and Australia crops are not going to be as heavy as early reports indicated—crops seldom are. Sentiment is veering round. Experts are pointing out that it will be close work making the 1920 crop fill out consumption requirements; that Europe will need more of our wheat, and will have to pay for it somehow. Anyway wheat cannot become dirt cheap so long as Russia is not producing. The prospects are that sentiment of this nature will influence wheat markets for the next few months.

Therefore, we look for stronger markets. We may be wrong, but conditions indicate that present prices have sound reasons for being sustained, ad pretty nearly anything that can happen during the next few months will tend to better wheat prices. But prices cannot go back to the level of last September. Little use holding for that.

The Editor's Table

The man who handles the local department of a newspaper learns, after due experience, not to expect even briefly expressed thanks from a column of pleasant things, but he knoweth as surely as cometh the winter, that a single line in which there is an unintentional misrepresentation will cause someone to be heard from as if from a housetop. And we well may add when he has made pleasant mention 999 times of some person place or thing, but on the thousandth time fails to do so, he must not expect to have been from accident, inadvertence or even entire lack of knowledge. It matters not. The simple fact remains and he will be judged by that.

We have at present two forms of advertising, one is to advertise from force of habit, or simply to let the people know that you are located on a certain street, the other is advertising to bring results. The latter is the only true form, and the man who makes use of it uses his ad. as a means of communication between himself and the public, in other words he makes his ad. talk, telling the people in an attractive way just what he is doing, and what he intends to do, in other words he makes the ad. his salesman and he always gets results. STAGNANT AUSTRIA

The above photo showing unemployed men lounging in the streets of Vienna tells the story of conditions in Austria today, better than could a 500 page book. Unemployment is widespread in the former Austrian Empire because of the lack of foreign credit, low exchange rates and unsettled political conditions. The unemployed lounge about the street, waiting for nothing in particular, merely longing and hoping for a job that will give them a living.

A Handy Tariff

In Canada the tariff has become a fetish. People are beginning to believe that it can be made to cure all evils. To date, it has caused many evils and cured none, but the people who have profited by the effects of the tariff have glorified it to such an extent that many believe they should use it for any ailment, and that it has all the virtues claimed for patent medicines.

The tariff is a wonderful affair. At one and the same time it can prevent commercial desperation, preserve the empire from collapse, keep down disloyalty of the people, solve all the labor difficulties, cut the wood, shovel the snow, and do other odd and necessary jobs.

PILGRIM PAINTING PRESENTED TO TERCENTENARY COMMISSION MAY BE LONG LIVED PICTURE

This photograph shows the large Walter Bayes, an English artist, a painting which was presented to the Pilgrim Tercentenary Commission in Boston the other day by Thos. A. Elston, a contractor of South Boston. It is entitled "Pilgrim Fathers Watching the Mayflower" and is thought that the painting may be the original picture painted by Alfred Elston, in presenting the painting, explained that it had come into his possession when, as a contractor, he demolished the home of Frederick C. Sayles at Pawtucket, R.I. some years ago. The painting measures seven feet eight inches by eighteen feet.

Saul—Foxwell: that the trustees give all possible support to the towards the holding of a school fair, and that all the members of the board make an effort to be present at the meeting when same is called by Mr Laws. Carried Consolidation—Mr Laws expressed a wish for the Chauvin school district, for the purpose of ascertaining to make an approach to the trustees of the Butzeville school district for the purpose of ascertaining whether they would be prepared to combine in some way with the Chauvin school district, provided they had not already made arrangements to build.

Dr. Folkins moved that Mr. Foxwell and the Secretary be a committee to see what could be done in this regard, and report at the next meeting of the Board, calling a special meeting if deemed advisable. Carried.

Dr. Folkins declared the meeting adjourned.

Letters To The EditorPatriotism & Picnics

Chauvin, January 17th 1921

Dear Sir,

With reference to the suggestion that a picnic be held by the G.W.V.A., Women's Institute, Agricultural Society, and Chauvin District U.F.A. on the 1st of July next, I would like through the medium of your valuable paper to endorse such a proposal. From a Patriotic point of view, such a picnic will command itself to every loyal Canadian in this district. The Chauvin District has too long neglected to observe this day, and it is while the gallant boys from this district were offering their lives for this fair land, those at home were too small to observe the national birthday.

Our country having been mercifully preserved to us, it is surely our duty to instil into the minds of the rising generation a love of that country, and I think among other things one way to do so would be to loyally observe Dominion Day.

Might I suggest that the above-named bodies appoint a Dominion Committee who will take steps to see that the 1st July next will be commemorated in a manner worthy of its historical significance.

Yours truly
ESSEX.

Educational Matters

We notice in last week's issue that Principal Laws asked you to produce a letter by Dr. Rush, a leading educationalist, on the subject of school children being allowed to attend amusements, which because of the lateness of the hour, had a detrimental effect on work done the day following.

We admire Mr. Laws stand in this matter, knowing that to interfere in this matter would be against his personal wishes, and was only done for the sake of getting the best results. The Hon. Smith, Minister of Education is known to take a similar stand on this question, and perhaps one way and another, it would be well for the parents to swallow whatever little resentment we may feel and see to it that our children forego till their school-days are over, amusements of a nature calculated to dull their ability to make the most of their educational chances.

There is no doubt of the enervating effect on brain and physique of being all night at a dance or even attending so many entertainments that one's mind is literally 'jazzing' all the next day with the effects. One's interest in either study, or work, is perforce one-sided and listless, owing to the previous drain on the nervous system.

The period of school, and the chance of study, are all too brief, out in the West—our children will be a long while grown up, and probably they'll make more of their lives when they're really grown up, if we insist a little more on them keeping themselves physically and mentally in trim for making the most of their school time opportunities.

Those of us who strike an attitude and erunciate that such is none of the teachers' business, had better drop it, and agree, instead that coupled with efficiency in the teacher, this is the sort of view point that is going to make us all proud parents after the June results are known.—Or to take a broader perspective, is what is needed to raise the educational status of the West.

Yours etc.

profit to the owners.

The buyer went so far towards proving he believed his idea to be a paying one, as to promise to make a monetary donation (than which which sincerity can give no better proof in these 'tight' times) towards the prize money.

He stated that judging from his experience in the markets, that such a procerude on the part of our local procedure on the part of our local from 6 to 8 cents in their returns per lb., and that now was the time to start when grain was so cheap and plentiful. While the information gleaned from the various tables of results submitted by the owners of the exhibited stock, would give valuable pointers for future procedure by all those of us desirous of proving our district to be the stamping ground of 'prime' stuff.'

The directors voted his idea to be a first class one, and very timely, (another instance that great minds think alike?) But this being a new step in our agricultural progress they desire expression of the view point of every farmer interested in developing the possibilities of his district, and in swelling, or in starting his bank account.' Any views on the question will accordingly be welcomed on the "At Home," days of the society. Without being jingoists, we believe that we've got the stockmen and the stock—we've got the district too! All we want is to push the idea. Let us make it unanimous!
